

FROM REMINDERS TO RESPONSIBILITY: RAISING KIDS WHO MAKE GOOD CHOICES

NOVEMBER 18, 2026

5:00-7:00 PM

VIRTUAL AT 5:30 PM

From Elf on the Shelf to Santa's watching and Mensch on a Bench, the holiday season is full of playful reminders encouraging children to make good choices. But what happens when the holidays are over, the excitement fades, and no one is watching? Join behavior specialist Brittany Taussig, MAT, BCBA, for a practical and engaging conversation about helping children develop positive behaviors that extend beyond immediate rewards, reminders, and adult supervision.

Together, we'll explore how clear expectations, consistent boundaries, positive reinforcement, and meaningful consequences can help children build responsibility, emotional regulation, and greater independence. Parents will learn realistic strategies for reducing power struggles, encouraging cooperation, and teaching children to navigate everyday challenges with increasing confidence.

Discover how intentional parenting strategies can help children move from relying on frequent reminders and adult guidance toward understanding expectations, taking ownership of their actions, and making thoughtful choices—even when no one is watching.
